APCOT is a biannual conference of the Asia-Pacific scientific community on advanced sensors, actuators, and micro/nano technology. The conference provides a forum for scientists, engineers, and practitioners around the world to present their latest works, exchange ideas, and find new directions. APCOT 2026 will be held in Taichung, Taiwan, the second largest city in Taiwan. The city, located in central Taiwan, hosts numerous historic sites, modern attractions, natural sceneries, fine restaurants, and leisure spots. APCOT 2026 will be held jointly with the International Conference on Smart Sensors 2026 (ICSS 2026) that is dedicated to education, research and strengthening industrial cooperation in micro-nano technologies
